

Is Flask a web server?

Ad by Smartproxy

Premium residential proxies.

Choose from 40+ million rotating IPs! Achieve the highest performance and low error rates.

Learn More

2 Answers

Prashant Baisla, Full stack web developer
Answered 6 years ago

Originally Answered: is Flask a web server ?

Flask is not a web server.

Flask is a micro web application framework. That means it is basically a set of tools and libraries that make it easier to build web applications in Python.)

Flask does however include a web server that can be used for testing and development.) But when you're ready to host your app or put it into production, you should choose a different web server to use with it. Eg. Gunicorn, Tornado etc.